

The Hill School of Wilmington

January 2022

Parents have to create victories whenever they can, whether it's music, sports or art. You want your dyslexic child to be able to say: 'Yeah, reading's hard. But I have these other things that I can do.'

— Stephen J. Cannell,
Emmy-winning TV producer

The Hill School will be closed on January 17th in observance of MLK Day. For information on schedule changes or closings, visit our website at www.hillschoolofwilmington.org/calendar.

The Many Strengths of Dyslexics

Nothing affects your chances at succeeding in school like not having the skills to read, spell, and write. This is what dyslexia is all about. It can be the one impediment to achieving one's lifelong goals. But, what if we told you that being dyslexic has gifts that can help you excel? With the right approach and support, you can turn this challenge around. Learn more HERE.

Map Your Child's DYSLEXIA

Create your child's personal map for learning using a strengths assessment based on eight skills many dyslexics share. This "map" may help to enhance performance in school and in life.

There is an Assessment for Teens, or parents can take the Assessment for Parents on behalf of their student.
